Sherlox Holmes and the Mysterious Crown

"I'm perplexed," said Watstein. "Regarding the aron (holy ark) the verse says: 'And make for it a gold rim all around.' (Exodus 25:11) Rashi says that this golden rim surrounding the aron represents the 'Crown of Torah.' Why does Rashi make this comment?"

"The aron," said world famous detective Sherlock Holmes, "housed the Two Tablets of the Torah. How beautiful that it be crowned with gold, as if to say: Whoever is dedicated to Torah merits a golden crown!"

"It brings tears to my eyes," said Watstein. "Yet, it does not answer my question."

"What is your question?" asked Sherlock.

"All aspects of the Temple and its vessels are infused with ethereal symbolism; however, Rashi does not make it his business to explain them all. Why specifically here does Rashi do so?"

"Indeed, it is a mystery, Dr. Watstein, yet I think I have an answer..."

Answer

"Was the rim part of the aron?" asked Sherlock.

"Apparently," said Watstein.

"Then why wasn't it made of wood?"

"What do you mean?" asked Watstein.

"The aron was wood covered with gold. The rim was just gold. Why?"

"Hmm, I think I see your point," said Watstein. "If the rim was an integral part of the aron, it should have been made of wood like the rest of the aron and then covered with gold. The fact that it was not made of wood indicates that it was separate from the aron, that it served some other function. Thus, Rashi explains its purpose: To symbolize the 'Crown of Torah.'"

"Majestic insight, Dr. Watstein."

I Did Not Know That!

“They shall make me a mishkan and I will dwell (v’shachanti) amongst them.” (Exodus 25:8)

The word v’shachanti (I will dwell) hints at the number of years that both the First and Second Temples stood, as follows: Read as two words, v’shachan ti means “He dwelt 410.” This hints that Hashem’s Presence dwelt in the First Temple for 410 years, until its destruction. Rearranged, v’shachanti spells v’sheni kaf tav, which means “and the Second, 420.” This hints that the Second Temple stood for 420 years.
